Congratulations on your efforts to create a defensible space zone around your home! Thinning vegetation on your property is an important element to reducing the risk of a catastrophic fire and improving forest health.

Do you know the other steps to improve fire safety that are equally as important? Contact your local fire protection district for more information and/or visit the online resource www.livingwithfire.info/tahoe/.